- Your investment horizon and your investor profile determine PostFinance's investment proposal.
- In some cases, there are two investment proposals to choose from. The investment horizon is used as a decision-making aid. The following rule applies: the shorter the investment horizon, the smaller the allocation of shares should be. Previous experience in financial investment or knowledge on the subject can also help you make a decision.
- The investment horizon should not be longer than the period until the planned retirement age. If you select a longer investment horizon, we recommend that you contact PostFinance to arrange a consultation.

The number of points you have calculated (= determined investor profile) and your investment horizon have resulted in the following investment options. Please mark the relevant field.
